

ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

As a Trustee of the New York City Police Foundation for many years, I was privileged to attend Citizen's Police Academy, partici pate in the Commander For A Day program in many New York City precincts, learn about firearms, serve on the Crime Stoppers Committee, interview officers in many units and learn about po lice procedure, the development and training of officers and issues of the day. The April Woo series was a direct result of my deep interest in law enforcement and the everyday lives of major case detectives, for whom I have the greatest respect. I loved every min ute of my NYPD life and still attend emergency services simulated training events whenever I can.

For Sleeper, I spent several months in Portland, Oregon, mag nificently and generously hosted by Tom and Marie Belcher, who worked tirelessly to teach me about Portland and the wine country, and who helped me in so many areas of research for this book, in cluding the drug trade, real estate, and banking. Marie is a banking and finance
