This is the first book about the Little Teddies. Here they learn the names of some colours and remember things that have those colours. We can remember colours with them as they play their colour game.

The Little Teddies See Colours

The Little Teddies were in the car.
Their Child had said they weren't going far,
But through the dark window they saw a star,
So they knew that it now must be night.

“It’s dark and we can’t see much outside,
“But we can play a game on this boring ride.
“We’ll imagine things” one small bear cried,
“With colours exciting and bright!”

“I’ll think of some things that can be RED.”
Said the Little Ted better known as Fred.
“Red Riding Hood and the ball by my bed,
“And STOP! on that Traffic Light!”

“I’ll think of some things that can be GREEN,”
Said the Little Teddy called Colleen.
The leaves, the grass and a frog I’ve seen,
And that light now says GO! Am I right?

“I’ll think of some things that are usually YELLOW,”
Said Richard a happy little fellow.
“A lemon, and ducklings who say ‘Hello’,
“And daffodils, all bring delight.”

“I’ll think of some things that can be BLUE!”
Said the Little Teddy whose name was Sue.
“There’s the sky, my elephant and bunny too.
“Oh look! There are bright lights in sight!”

They stopped at a house and they were THERE!
Excitement filled the heart of each bear.
Balloons of all colours were tied to a chair.
They floated above them, into the air –
Each one like a pretty round kite!
